The information that you provide will add life to the story of your home and provide the Historical Society with valuable historical information.

This background can include:

- The age and style of your home, how long the home has been in your family
- Past homeowners
- Interesting stories about the home and/or neighborhood
- Any other information that you feel is important when writing about your home

You may find information in your abstracts, by interviewing older neighbors or previous homeowners, doing research at the Hopkins Historical Society or the Hopkins Library.
